The policy of the The Citizen is to print the local news in an interesting manner, to summarize the news of the world at large, to fight for the right as the paper sees the right, without fear or favor to the end that it may serve the best interests of its readers and the welfare of the county.

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 10, 1911.

A GREAT VICTORY.

The Citizen printed, published, circulated and mailed to voters in Wayne county the largest political edition in its history, the number being over 12,000 copies. The result of election is the result of clean politics, which was advocated editorially by The Citizen. We rejoice with the candidates in their victory, which is the finest recorded in many an election. One of the reasons for this magnificent victory was a representative ticket. The different candidates running for the office were not all huddled together apparently under the roof of one town, but came from various sections in Wayne county.

The Citizen was optimistic throughout the entire campaign. It conducted it with an idea of placing in office the men most fitted for the performance of duties pertaining to the respective office for which the candidate was running. Never once did it stoop to low, dirty and mean politics, which, we are sorry to state was advocated and distributed broadcast by one of our contemporaries over Wayne's fair soil. It acted as a boomerang and resulted in practically defeating the whole Democratic ticket.

The Citizen has been highly commended upon the stand it took and the manner of conducting the clean campaign, which we believe, in a measure, aided materially in electing the Republican ticket. Congratulations to the many successful candidates. The Citizen sincerely hopes their office will be prosperous and that each officer who has been so unanimously elected will enjoy the hospitality of the people of Wayne county, who made it possible by their vote in placing him in such a responsible position.

LET US ALL WORK.

The Citizen has always favored expansion and therefore we heartily endorse the movement instigated by the Greater Honesdale Board of Trade for a bigger, better and busier Honesdale and Wayne county. The opportunities afforded in Honesdale and dear old Wayne are manifold. We would like to see Wayne county become the foremost county industrially in the Keystone state and the conditions are good that it will be. The building of the large dam at Wilsonville, which will back up thousands of acres of water, will be the largest body of water in the State of Pennsylvania and will be possible of developing a tremendous horse power and one not equalled in this section of the country. The alert Honesdale Board of Trade already realizes what this means and has started a campaign of advertising that will place Honesdale and Wayne county upon the map. The possibilities are great and there is no reason why Wayne county should not be the home of several diversified additional industries whose product will go to all points of the compass.

Outside of manufactured articles in Honesdale and vicinity, the county also deserves recognition agriculturally in that its soil is especially adapted to raising apples. According to Government reports, Wayne county is an ideal place for the cultivation of this luscious fruit in that it has the flavor, which is missing in Western apples. We sincerely hope the farmers of this county will set out many new apple orchards. Several farmers, however, recognize the good qualities contained in the soil and have taken advantage of the opportunities afforded them. If new orchards were set out the coming season or this fall they would be equivalent to acres of diamonds in a few years. Develop Wayne county agriculturally.

In reviewing the list of successful manufacturers that were reproduced in a special article in the Wednesday issue of The Citizen, we note some of the oldest and most successful institutions in the town. By their integrity of manufacturing nothing but first-class goods the Honesdale producers have won the confidence of the public which is proof of their continued success and prosperity. Outside of the glass and shoe industries there are few establishments that reproduce the same kind of an article. Its industries have made Honesdale.

Greater Honesdale is heard on all sides. The people living in Texas are desirous of coming into Honesdale and in our opinion it is right and proper that they should. The Greater Honesdale Board of Trade now has a committee out on this question. We understand that a number of people living in different parts of Texas township have expressed a desire to come into Honesdale since the borough council annexed the section in the vicinity of West Park street. By covering a larger area Honesdale will be greater in strength, power and size, capable of doing more and receiving more. The census of 1910 gave the borough about 3,000 inhabitants, when in reality it should be 7,000 to 8,000. Let's work hard and assiduously for Greater Honesdale so when the next census is taken Honesdale will loom up and be classed as a city. It can be done. Let all put their shoulder to the wheel of industry and push forward out of the muddy streets and onto a paved thoroughfare. Then success will crown our efforts and Honesdale will be known not simply as an inland town but will rank with cities that have grown large under much more adverse circumstances. All work for Greater Honesdale.
